Zašto?

Često imamo priliku posjetiti kolektivne izložbe arhitektonskih crteža, fotografija, tlocrta, skica i maketa. Izložba Prijatelji za Oris novo je, spontano okupljanje prijatelja i kolega koji su tijekom godina sudjelovali u dogadjima u organizaciji Orisa. Zašto je izložba u galeriji Oris Kuće arhitekture u Zagrebu tako posebna?

Izložba koju trenutno možemo pogledati organizirana je u trenutku kada se čitav svijet bori s pandemijom virusa Covid-19. Da, trenutno živimo u izvanrednim okolnostima. Nitko nije mogao predvidjeti na što će nalikovati naš život proteklih nekoliko mjeseci. Unatoč svemu, Oris je nastavio sa svojim uobičajenim aktivnostima organiziranja izložbi. Tim činom na nas ostavljaju dubok dojam. Kako smo sretni da se neke aktivnosti ipak mogu nastaviti, možda izmijenjene i u drugačijem obliku, ali održavaju se i tako nam omogućuju da cijenimo i veselimo se uobičajenim životnim radostima.

Ova je izložba i izraz velikodušnosti, solidarnosti i povezanosti. Organizatori su se brzo prilagodili novoj realnosti i pozvali arhitekte iz raznih država diljem svijeta da pokažu svoje radove. Često pišemo o umreženosti, ali zapravo su odnosi – trajne veze koje njegujemo – omogućili da se ova izložba održi.

Na izložbi možemo vidjeti odraz nekih intrinzičnih karakteristika arhitektonske profesije. Arhitekti, na primjer, često rade u vlastitim tvrtkama i prijavljuju se na natječaje koje dobivaju od klijenata – privatne i javne.

Arhitektura zna biti usamljeno zanimanje. Uredi mogu biti mali, čak fragmentirani i odvojeni jedni od drugih. U zahtjevnom radnom ritmu prijava na natječaje nije lako odvojiti vrijeme za aktivnosti poput istraživanja. Teško je pronaći druge sadržaje. Izložbe stoga služe tomu da se usporede ideje te, na izrazito vizualan način, potiču kolizije i povezivanja koje profesiju čine živom i osiguravaju joj napredak.

Kultura rada u arhitektonskom studiju promiče se na fakultetima i u profesiji se potiče suradnja. Timovi ljudi rade zajedno u uvjerenju da će doprinos nekolicine učiniti rezultat boljim od onoga koji bi mogao postići pojedinac. Proces analiziranja, kritiziranja, razrađivanja i unaprjeđivanja prijedloga sastavnji je dio projektantskog procesa diljem svijeta. Učiti se može iz raznih izvora, uključujući ideje drugih, pokušaje i pogreške, rasprave, eksperimente... Na izložbama arhitekti pokazuju svoj rad, uspoređuju se sa svojim kolegama i uče jedni od drugih.

Na kraju, u trenutku kada se svijet bori sa sadašnjim i budućim posljedicama pandemije, zašto je toliko važna arhitektonska izložba? Vjerujem da je izložba i poziv profesiji da zauzme novu i širu ulogu u društvu. Svatko je od nas iz prve ruke mogao vidjeti kako je naš fizički prostor izravno povezan s našim zdravljem i dobrobiti. Arhitekti to, naravno, znaju, ali nisu to uvijek znali izraziti ili u skladu s time djelovati. Izložba je primjer energije, ideja, solidarnosti i optimizma. Budućnost neće biti ista kao što je bila prošlost, ali može biti pozitivna, u nekim stvarima čak i bolja ako arhitekti na nju budu mogli utjecati.

Why?

We have often seen collective exhibitions of architects' drawings photos, plans, sketches, and models. The current exhibition is a fresh, spontaneous gathering of friends and colleagues who have participated in the Oris events over the years. Why is an exhibition at the Oris Gallery in Zagreb so special?

The exhibition that we see today is organized when all the world is grappling with Covid-19. Yes, our current situation is unique. No one could have predicted what life would be like in these past months. Yet Oris continues with its normal activity of creating an exhibition. Therefore, they are telling us something very profound. How lucky we are that some things can continue, perhaps in different formats or with certain modifications, but activities continue and allow us to appreciate and rejoice at the normal pleasures of life.

This exhibition is also an expression of generosity, solidarity, and connection across the miles. The organizers were able to quickly adapt to a new reality and to call upon architects from many countries to share their work. We often talk about networks, but relationships — those ongoing connections that we nurture — are what have made this exhibition possible.

Within the exhibition, we can see some intrinsic characteristics of architecture being reflected. For example, architects often work in their own firms responding to commissions received from clients, both private and public. It is sometimes a solitary profession. Offices may be small, and can even be considered fragmented and separated from one another. Endeavors such as research are not easy to undertake when commissions are competing for one's time. Tangential activities are difficult to fund. Therefore, exhibitions serve the purpose of bringing together ideas, and in a highly visual way, facilitating collisions and connections that keep the profession alive and moving forward.

Studio culture is fostered in schools of architecture and the profession is known as one of collaboration. Teams of people work together in the belief that the contributions of several will make the outcome better than that of just one person. The process of analyzing, criticizing, refining, and improving proposals is part and parcel of the design process all across the globe. Learning comes from all sources, including others' ideas, trials and errors, discussions, experimentation... Through exhibitions, architects show their work, measure themselves against their colleagues, and learn from each other.

And finally, with the world struggling with the present and future due to the pandemic, why is an architecture exhibition so important? I believe that the exhibition is also a call for the profession to take up a new and expanded role. Each and every person has seen first-hand how our physical space is directly related to our health and well-being. Of course, architects have known this but were not always able to express this or act upon this. The exhibition is a sample of energy, ideas, solidarity, and optimism. The future will not be the same as the past, but it can be positive and in some ways may even be better if architects can have an impact.

VERA GRIMMERUrednica časopisa Oris

Prijatelji za Oris – izraz zajedništva

Može li se uopće jedan arhitektonski časopis povezati s fenomenom prijateljstva? Redakcije odabiru za njih zanimljive ili značajne projekte, brinu oko popratnih tekstova čiji su autori najčešće sami urednici. Neovisni grafički dizajneri oblikuju revije suočene s digitalnom konkurenjom. Redakcije, jasno, nastoje svoj proizvod učiniti što atraktivnijim za potencijalne čitatelje, ali i steći ugled i utjecaj. No je li to dovoljno? Postoji li potreba za osobnim kontaktom, čak prijateljstvom između uredništva i autora projekata?

U najmanju ruku, potrebna je empatija u razumijevanju autora i uživljavanje u prikazane projekte. Iza dobrih namjera trebalo bi stajati barem poštovanje prema često napornom procesu projektiranja i izvedbe. Ove, možda previše idealno zamišljene principe, redakcija našeg časopisa nastoji primjenjivati. Pritom je samokritičnost bolji saveznik od samouvjerenosti. Posve je realno da ponekad nedostaje koncentracije ili nije moguće razviti sklonost prema određenom projektu pa može doći i do nesporazuma. Ipak se nadamo da u većini slučajeva postižemo dosta dobre rezultate, što se pokazuje u povjerenju koje nam daju naši autori. Takvo povjerenje osnažuju osobni susreti prigodom intervjeta, zapravo dijaloga, koji otkrivaju pojedine osobnosti, njihove kreativne procese, odredene stavove i reference. Isto tako, informativno je, ali i lijepo, upoznati arhitekte u njihovu ambijentu — Tuñóna i Mansillu u atelijeru prepunom konceptualnih modela ili nadasve respektiranog Rafaela Monea u njegovoj privatnoj biblioteci, razgovarajući ugodno, ali i koncentrirano uz kavu iz finskih šalica. Vrlo često dobivamo materijale najnovijih rada va naših prijatelja arhitekata, što pokazuje uzajaman i dobar odnos časopisa i arhitekata. Uspostavljeno povjerenje i međusobno poštovanje baza je svakog prijateljstva pa se u tom smislu može govoriti o prijateljstvu između časopisa, u ovom slučaju Orisa, i arhitekata te recipijenata.

Bez taštine, ali sa zadovoljstvom, tim Orisa može biti svjestan potporre nevjerojatno širokog kruga simpatizera, koji obuhvaća područje od Tokija do čileanskih visoravnih. Ta se simpatija ne temelji samo na sadržaju i oblikovanju časopisa već na čitavu nizu djelatnosti kao što su prije svega tradicionalni festival arhitekture Dani Orisa i mnogobrojne i različite aktivnosti galerije Oris Kuće arhitekture. U prvom planu nalazi se ipak posredovanje arhitektonskih dosega u obliku realizacija izložbi.

Prisjetimo se nekih osobito dojmljivih prezentacija. Ponekad nije bilo moguće odrediti radi li se o umjetničkoj ili arhitektonskoj izložbi, kao što je bio slučaj s izloženim modelima projekata Smiljana Radića. Apstraktni, virtuozno izvedeni modeli na odgovarajući su način izrazili specifičnu Radićevu poetiku. Posve drugačije, ali isto tako majstorske modele pokazao je Wolfgang Tschapeller — kostur i muskulatura njegove arhitekture oblikovali su vrlo uspješnu izložbu. Istodobno zamagljene i brilljantne fotografije Spomen-parka Dotrščina, majstora fotografa Josipa Klarice, omogućile su prigodom otvaranja izložbe karizmatski trenutak zajedništva.

Upravo mogućnosti stvaranja zajedništva i susreta osobite su vrijednosti Oris Kuće arhitekture. Intenziviranje kontakata, ležerni oblici druženja između članova arhitektonske zajednice, postali su poželjni oblik društvenog života. Od početka ožujka ove godine, silom prilika sve su se aktivnosti ugasile. Pandemija i još k tome razorni potres, koji je devastirao nama drago lice Zagreba, temeljito su promijenili naše individualne živote, ali i život čitavog društva. Nemogućnost osobnih kontakata pogubna je upravo na području kulture, koja je i u normalnim okolnostima na rubu pozornosti. Posljedice doba korone za društvo, demokraciju, svaku pojedinu egzistenciju, već su sada nesagleđive. Osim strpljenja i samodiscipline, tu pomažu samo optimistične inicijative koje ukazuju na neko bolje vrijeme nakon katastrofa epidemije i potresa. Takvu životnu, simboličnu gestu, ali i znak uzajamnosti časopisa i autora arhitekata predstavlja izložba Prijatelji za Oris. Nužno heterogeni skup individualnih iskaza predstavlja istodobno retrospektivu i korak u budućnost. Trebao bi to biti znak ohrabrenja i postojanosti, utjeha i poticaj.

VERA GRIMMER

Editor of Oris magazine

Friends for Oris – a gesture of friendship

Can an architectural magazine be connected with the phenomenon of friendship? Editorial boards select projects they consider interesting or significant and handle the accompanying texts, often editing them themselves. Independent graphic designers shape the magazines while facing digital competition. Editorial boards try to make their products attractive for potential readers but also establish their reputation and gain influence. Is this enough? Is there a need for a personal contact, even friendship between editors and project designers?

It takes empathy to understand the author and involvement in the presented projects, at the very least. Good intentions should be followed by respect shown to the often-exhausting process of design and realization. Editorial board of our magazine does its best to apply these, maybe too idealistic, principles. Self-criticism is often a better ally than self-confidence. It is completely realistic that sometimes a lack of concentration happens or affinity for a project is not developed so misunderstandings occur. We still hope that we mostly achieve good results, which is displayed in the trust often given to us by our authors. It is also strengthened by personal meetings during interviews or dialogues, which reveal specific personalities, their creative processes, attitudes and references. It is also informative and nice to meet the architects in their environment — Tuñón and Mansilla in their atelier full of conceptual models or greatly admired Rafael Moneo in his private library and have a pleasant but focused conversation sipping coffee from Arabia coffee cups. Very often we get the materials showing the latest works of our friends architects, which confirms a good and two-way relationship developed between our magazine and architects. The established trust and mutual respect is the basis of each friendship and we can, therefore, speak of friendship between the magazine, Oris in this case, and architects and recipients.

Without being vain, but content, Oris team can acknowledge the support of the amazingly wide circle of sympathisers, from Tokyo to the Plateaus of Chile. This sympathy is not only based on the content and design of Oris magazine but a series of other activities, most recognised being the traditional Days of Oris festival of architecture and many diverse activities of the Oris House of Architecture, which predominantly present architectural successes in exhibitions.

Let us mention just a couple of impressive presentations. It was sometimes not possible to determine whether it was an art or architectural exhibition, like in the case of the exhibition of models of projects by Smiljan Radić. Abstract and masterfully done models expressed specific Radić's poetics in the best possible way. Completely different, but also extremely skilfully done models were exhibited by Wolfgang Tschapeller — the skeleton and muscles of his architecture shaped a very successful exhibition. Misty and brilliant photographs of Dotrščina Memorial Park by master of photography Josip Klarica resulted with a charismatic moment of togetherness on the occasion of the exhibition opening.

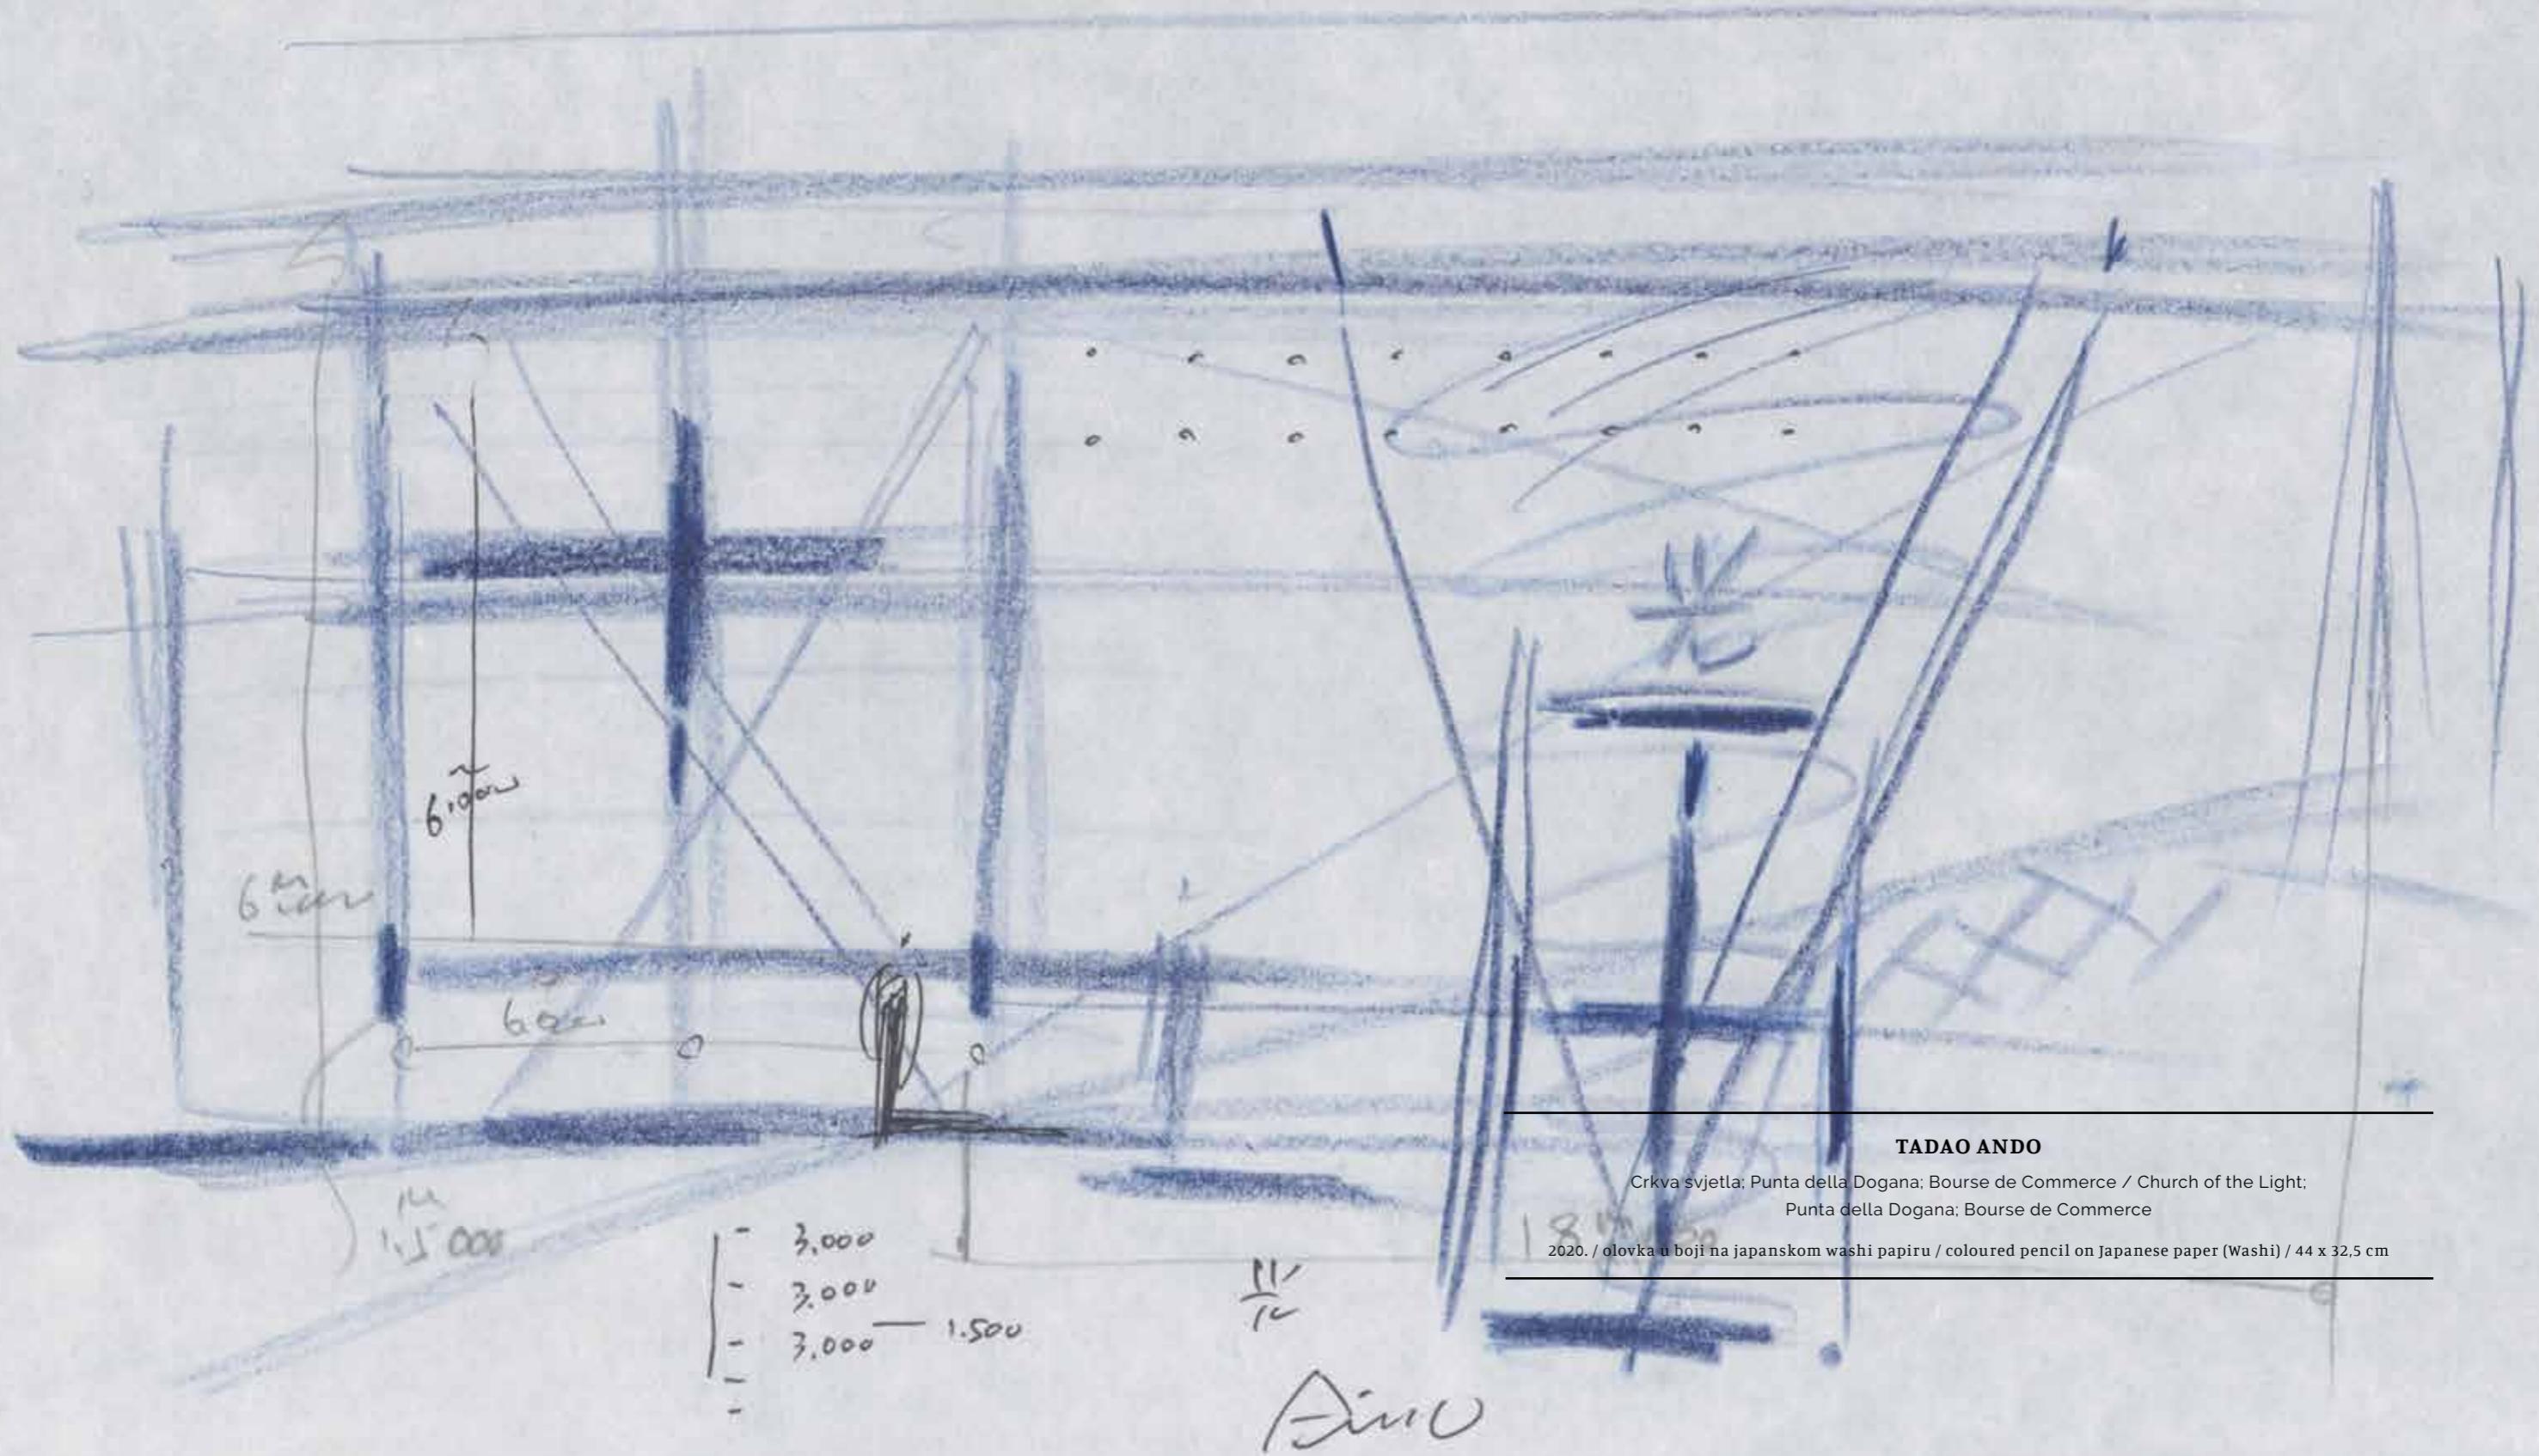

It is the possibility of encouraging togetherness and encounters which make the specific qualities of the Oris House of Architecture. Intense contacts, relaxed gatherings of the members of the architectural community have become a desirable form of social life. Since March this year, all the activities have been shut down. The pandemic and the severe earthquake that hit Zagreb and damaged its features so dear to us all, have fundamentally changed our lives, as well as the life of the whole community.

The impossibility of maintaining personal contacts is especially harmful for cultural activities, which do not get enough attention even in normal circumstances. The consequences of the corona period on the society, democracy, each individual life, are already far-reaching and severe. Besides patience and self-discipline, only optimistic initiatives can help, which point to a better future after the catastrophic pandemic and earthquake. Such a lively and symbolic gesture, as well as the sign of the mutual respect between the magazine and architects is the Friends for Oris exhibition. A heterogenous collection of individual expressions represents a retrospective and a step into the future. It should be a sign of support and resilience, comfort and encouragement.
